

FAN ART SUBMISSION

Terms and Conditions

Section 1 - Core Terms

I understand and agree to be bound to the following terms and conditions when I submit my email to Marathon Pictures or its affiliates or subsidiaries - herein collectively referred to as "The Production Company". This submission herein will collectively be referred to as "The Submitted Art".

I agree that the content of The Submitted Art will follow the "Ground Rules" outlined further below in Section 2. And I accept that these rules may change at the discretion of The Production Company.

I am not violating any agreement or understanding I have with another party, nor am I including content within The Submitted Art that is of a classified or privately confided nature - unless you have the right and permission to include such content.

I am aware that under the law of Australia copyright is automatically attributed to created works and thus I am giving permission to The Production Company to reproduce duplicate and communicate The Submitted Art for inclusion in online publications.

I accept that The Submitted Art may or may not include, inspire or elude to ideas and concepts that are in development at or currently belonging to The Production Company.

With this in mind I understand and accept the rationale behind why I am now formally giving up all copyright and other intellectual property right claims I may have against The Production Company for copying, disclosing, evaluating or otherwise using The Submission.

I accept that The Submitted Art may be hosted on an external, third party site. This includes and is not limited to DeviantArt and Imgur.

I acknowledge that The Submitted Art includes elements of intellectual property that belong to The Production Company and I will in no way seek to use The Submitted Art on a commercial basis.

The Production Company is under no obligation to respond to The Submitted Art or to hold it in confidence.

I will not be compensated for The Submitted Art.

I understand and agree to be bound to the above terms and conditions when I submit my idea to Marathon Pictures or its affiliates or subsidiaries (herein collectively referred to as "The Production Company").

Section 2 - Ground Rules

I understand and agree to the following Ground Rules set out by The Production Company:

- Don't be a dick. Discriminatory, inflammatory or just plain idiotic submissions will be dealt with accordingly.

And finally, thanks for your submission.
